Diocese and Saint Joseph Church Be Aware!

Unfortunately, we are again seeing an increase nationally in email scams. There is an uptick of people impersonating parish priests or staff in an attempt to solicit funds. The creation of false email accounts claiming to be the bishop, diocese, pastor, priest and staff are occurring in higher numbers. Please note that the Diocese of Charleston, Saint Joseph Church, its clergy and staff will never solicit funds electronically in this manner.

What to look for in determining a scam? These email scams are solicitations in which the criminals send a casual and brief note like, "Good morning John, I want to send some electronic gift cards to some needy members of the community." "Can you help?" The signature line uses a familiar name of the pastor, like that is not the pastor's, but an imposter. Close examination of the sender's email address will reveal that the address is a phony. But, it could be easily overlooked because the imposter will take a legitimate email address (like FrJoe@gmail.com and use FrJoe@msn.com (email address looks very similar ... yet, different). We ask that parishioners be extremely cautious when responding to these types of emails.

In general, when responding to emails that request money or something of a confidential matter, consider responding to the email request in person or by telephone to confirm the email is legitimate. Texting and email should only be used as a secondary method of validation. Be sure not to click any part of these emails as clicking opens a malicious software. Also, never share your password, or open an infected email attachment.

tap your emotional triggers, such as urgency or curiosity. They can make the emails look like they came from someone you know, such as a friend or even a trusted company you frequently use. They could even add logos of your bank or forge the email address so the message appears more legitimate. Attackers send these messages to millions of people. They do not know who will take the bait, all they know is the more they send, the more people will fall victim. For a phishing attack to work, the bad guys need to trick you into doing something. Fortunately, there are clues that a message is an attack. Here are the most common ones: A tremendous sense of urgency that demands "immediate action" before something bad happens, like threatening to close an account or send you to jail. The attacker wants to rush you into making a mistake. Pressuring you to bypass or ignore your policies or procedures at work. A strong
